

Ceramist Lene Kuhl Jakobsen

Hi there.

It been a while since my last newsletter and my time has been divided between work and the joy of looking after Mia who has just turned 2. There are a few things happening here in the depth of winter that I can tell you about.

I am pleased to have this sculptural group 'Stratum' (see picture above) selected as a finalist in the upcoming Manningham Victorian Ceramic Art Award Exhibition. The opening takes place on August 16th and the exhibition is open till 23rd September. For more info www.manningham.vic.gov.au

The exhibition 'Crafter's Edge' starts on 24th August.

I will show a selection of pieces as well as these new vases made from a coarse clay using various oxides for the stripes and finished with a matt ash based glaze. The pictures show how the colours change in the process of decorating glazing and firing.

I have booked my stall at The Heide Makers Market www.heidemarket.com which happens monthly on Saturdays in the park below the Heide Museum.

The dates are:

September 9th, October 14th and November 11th.

Open from 10am to 3pm.

I hope you can come by to say hello and have a look at the other 80 plus stalls.

Cheers Lene
