

Ceramist Lene Kuhl Jakobsen

Hi there.

In the last few weeks I have made pieces for the first firing of 2018 and being March already its time for a newsletter.

Mostly I make functional pieces on the pottery wheel but I also enjoy using different handbuilding techniques for more sculptural works.

The image above shows ceramic objects which have no obvious use as such.....They are the size of a hand and could serve as a paper weight, though these days, who needs one

I am at the Heide Makers Market on Saturdays: March 10th, April 14th, and May 12th. www.heidemarket.com

Open from 10am-4pm in the sculpture park at the Heide Museum of Modern Art in Bulleen.

Nearby is The Bulleen Art and Garden where a friend Andrew Potocnik is exhibiting from 8th March to 8 April. See invite here.

Last year I went to Denmark and Amsterdam and a short stay in Singapore on the way back.

During any holiday I really enjoy getting on a bicycle to explore a city.

In Kobenhavn I visited my old boss and friend Jesper Packness. He works in a studio with a shop in the inner city. I lived around the corner in the early 1980' and worked in his production pottery for 4 years..

My daughter Emily purchased a vase as a wedding present for friends.

Steven Low has a studio and shop in the Arab quarter in Singapore. He has been to Australia for workshops.....and is very interested in woodfiring and in didgeridoos.....

Cheers Lene
